MARCH 2015

Sydney Sea-Doo is excited announce the renewed partnership between current corporate and naming rights sponsor, Nautilus Marine Insurance. The two-year deal will see James Masterton compete at all Australian championship events and selected international events until the end of December 2016. Nautilus Marine Insurance focuses much of their efforts specifically towards Personal Watercraft (PWC), which is evident by in-depth details in their policy.

Also joining the team until 2016 is Australian trailer manufacturer, Boeing Trailers. Boeing Trailers are one of Australia's highest quality manufacturers and their financial support is a positive sign for both Australian PWC racing and the industry as a whole. "I feel honoured to work with both these Australian companies for the remainder of this year and beyond. Their enthusiastic approach reminds me of myself, in that they see a benefit in utilising marketing dollars to invest back into the industry and our sport. I am grateful of their support."

Sydney Sea-Doo will display an all-new official race team logo on merchandise and corporate material. Beginning at the 2015 'Sydney International Boat Show', Sydney Sea-Doo will launch an all-new, Boeing/Sydney Sea-Doo edition custom trailer that will be standard equipment for all customers who purchase a new Sea-Doo watercraft from the dealership.

Next event is Rounds 3 & 4 of the Yamaha Australian Jetcross Championship this coming weekend March 28-29 in Sydney at popular venue, the St. George Sailing Club.
